ACT SUMMARY

- Permits the creation of any trust, rather than just a testamentary trust, to provide funding for supplemental services for certain beneficiaries with physical or mental disabilities.
- Prohibits the termination or revocation of such a trust without payment of a certain amount into the Services Fund for Individuals with Mental Illness or the Services Fund for Individuals with Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities once trust funds are disbursed on behalf of the beneficiary.
- Subject to specified conditions, generally provides that such a trust that confers certain discretion upon the trustee is not an asset or resource of the beneficiary, the beneficiary's estate, the settlor, or the settlor's estate and is exempt from creditors' and other claims against the beneficiary, the beneficiary's estate, the settlor, or the settlor's estate.
- Applies the act's provisions in determining the assets or resources of a recipient of medical assistance who is a beneficiary of that type of trust, the recipient's estate, the settlor, or the settlor's estate, and to claims under the Medical Assistance Programs Law against the recipient, the recipient's estate, the settlor, or the settlor's estate.

- Applies the act's provisions in determining the assets or resources of a patient or resident of a welfare institution or facility who is a beneficiary of that type of trust, the patient's or resident's estate, the settlor, or the settlor's estate for purposes of determining ability to pay, and to claims under the General Welfare Institutions Law against the patient or resident, the patient's or resident's estate, the settlor, or the settlor's estate.

CONTENT AND OPERATION

Fiduciary Law--Trusts for Supplemental Services for Beneficiaries with Disabilities

Preexisting law

Under preexisting law, any person could create a testamentary trust to provide funding for "supplemental services" for the benefit of another individual who met either of the following conditions (R.C. 1339.51(B)):

(A) The individual has a physical or mental "disability" and is eligible to receive services through the Department of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities (DMRDD) or a county board of mental retardation and developmental disabilities.

(B) The individual has a mental "disability" and is eligible to receive services through the Department of Mental Health (DMH) or a board of alcohol, drug addiction, and mental health services.

R.C. 1339.51(A)(4) defines "supplemental services" as services specified by rule of the Department of Mental Health or the Department of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities that are provided to an individual with a disability in addition to services the individual is eligible to receive under programs authorized by federal or state law. R.C. 1339.51(A)(2) defines "disability" as any substantial, medically determinable impairment that can be expected to result in death or that has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of at least 12 months, except that "disability" does not include an impairment that is the result of abuse of alcohol or drugs.

Under continuing law, the trust may confer discretion upon the trustee and may contain specific instructions or conditions governing the exercise of the discretion.

To the extent permitted by federal law and subject to the provisions pertaining to the enforcement of specific instructions or conditions governing a trustee's discretion (see COMMENT 1(b)), a trust authorized as described above that conferred discretion upon the trustee was not considered an asset or resource of the beneficiary, the beneficiary's estate, or the testator's estate and was exempt from the claims of creditors, political subdivisions, the state, other governmental entities, and other claimants against the beneficiary, the beneficiary's estate, or the testator's estate, including claims based on provisions of the Medical Assistance Programs Law, the General Welfare Institutions Law, and the DMRDD Law and claims sought to be satisfied by way of a civil action, subrogation, execution, garnishment, attachment, judicial sale, or other legal process, if all of the following conditions applied (R.C. 1339.51(D)):

(1) At the time the trust is created, the trust principal does not exceed the maximum amount determined under the Fiduciary Law. (See COMMENT 2.)

(2) The trust instrument contains a statement of the testator's intent, or otherwise clearly evidences the testator's intent, that the beneficiary does not have authority to compel the trustee under any circumstances to furnish the beneficiary with minimal or other maintenance or support, to make payments from the principal of the trust or from the income derived from the principal, or to convert any portion of the principal into cash, whether pursuant to an "ascertainable standard" specified in the instrument or otherwise. R.C. 1339.51(A)(1) defines "ascertainable standard" as including a standard in a trust instrument requiring the trustee to provide for the care, comfort, maintenance, welfare, education, or general well-being of the beneficiary.

(3) The testator is deceased.

(4) The trust instrument provides that trust assets can be used only to provide supplemental services, as defined by rule of the Director of Mental Health or the Director of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities, to the beneficiary.

(5) The trust is maintained and assets are distributed in accordance with rules as described in paragraph (4), above.

(6) The trust instrument provides that on the death of the beneficiary, a portion of the remaining assets of the trust, which must be not less than 50% of those assets, will be deposited to the credit of the Services Fund for Individuals with Mental Illness or the Services Fund for Individuals with Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities.

R.C. 1339.51 does not limit or otherwise affect the creation, validity, interpretation, or effect of any trust that is not created under that section (R.C. 1339.51(F)).

Operation of the act--creation of the trust

The act authorizes any person to create a trust (instead of just a testamentary trust) to provide funding for supplemental services for the benefit of another individual who meets either of the conditions described above in paragraphs (A) and (B) in "Preexisting law" with respect to the individual's disability (R.C. 1339.51(B)).

To the extent permitted by federal law and subject to the provisions pertaining to the enforcement of specific instructions or conditions governing a trustee's discretion (see COMMENT 1(b)), a trust authorized as described in the act that confers discretion upon the trustee is not considered an asset or resource of the beneficiary, the beneficiary's estate, the settlor (added by the act), or the settlor's (instead of testator's) estate and is exempt from the claims of creditors, political subdivisions, the state, other governmental entities, and other claimants against the beneficiary, the beneficiary's estate, the settlor, or the settlor's estate, including claims based on provisions of the Medical Assistance Programs Law, the General Welfare Institutions Law, and the DMRDD Law and claims sought to be satisfied by way of a civil action, subrogation, execution, garnishment, attachment, judicial sale, or other legal process, if all of the following conditions apply (R.C. 1339.51(D)):

(1) The conditions described in paragraphs (1), (4), (5), and (6) in "Preexisting law," above.

(2) The trust instrument contains a statement of the settlor's (instead of testator's) intent, or otherwise clearly evidences the settlor's intent, that the beneficiary does not have authority to compel the trustee under any circumstances to furnish the beneficiary with minimal or other maintenance or support, to make payments from the principal of the trust or from the income derived from the principal, or to convert any portion of the principal into cash, whether pursuant to an "ascertainable standard" specified in the instrument or otherwise.

The act removes the condition described above in paragraph (3) in "Preexisting law" that the testator is deceased.

Operation of the act--prohibition against terminating or revoking trust without payment of certain amount into the services fund once funds are disbursed

The act provides that once a trustee takes action on a trust created to provide funding for supplemental services for the benefit of another individual who meets either of the conditions described above in paragraphs (A) and (B) of "Preexisting law" and disburses trust funds on behalf of the beneficiary of the trust, then the trust may not be terminated or otherwise revoked by a particular event or otherwise without payment of a certain amount into the Services Fund for Individuals with Mental Illness or the Services Fund for Individuals with Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities. The amount of the payment must be equal to the disbursements made on behalf of the beneficiary for medical care by the state from the date the trust vests but cannot be more than 50% of the trust corpus. (R.C. 1339.51(G).)

Medical Assistance Programs Law

Former law

Under former law, if a recipient of medical assistance was the beneficiary of a trust created pursuant to the Fiduciary Law on Trusts for Supplemental Services for Beneficiaries with Disabilities, notwithstanding any contrary provision of the Medical Assistance Programs Law or of a rule adopted pursuant to that Law, R.C. 1339.51(C) and (D) (see "Preexisting law" under "Fiduciary Law, etc.," above, and COMMENT 1) applied in determining the assets or resources of the recipient, the recipient's estate, or the testator's estate and to claims arising under the Medical Assistance Programs Law against the recipient, the recipient's estate, or the testator's estate (R.C. 5111.15).

Operation of the act

Under the act, if a recipient of medical assistance is the beneficiary of a trust created pursuant to the Fiduciary Law on Trusts for Supplemental Services for Beneficiaries with Disabilities, notwithstanding any contrary provision of the Medical Assistance Programs Law or of a rule adopted pursuant to that Law, R.C. 1339.51(C) and (D) (see "Operation of the act--creation of the trust" under "Fiduciary Law, etc.," above, and COMMENT 1) apply in determining the assets or resources of the recipient, the recipient's estate, the settlor (added by the act), or the settlor's (instead of the testator's) estate and to claims arising under the Medical Assistance Programs Law against the recipient, the recipient's estate, the settlor, or the settlor's estate (R.C. 5111.15).

General Welfare Institutions Law

Preexisting law

Under preexisting law, unchanged by the act, the DMH and the DMRDD must investigate the financial condition of patients in hospitals and residents in institutions, residents whose care or treatment is being paid for in a private facility or home under the control of the DMRDD, and certain relatives liable for the support of those patients or residents, in order to determine the ability of any patient, resident, or relative to pay for the support of the patient or resident and to provide suitable clothing as required by the superintendent of the institution. The DMH must investigate the financial condition of patients receiving state-operated community mental health services and of the liable relatives to determine the patient's or relative's ability to pay for the patient's support. In all cases, in determining ability to pay and the amount to be charged, due regard must be had for others who may be dependent for support upon those relatives or the estate of the patient. (R.C. 5121.04(A).)

The appropriate Department must follow specified provisions in the law in determining the ability to pay of a patient or resident or the patient's or resident's liable relatives and the amount to be charged that patient or resident or liable relatives. One of these provisions was that if a patient or resident with or without dependents was the beneficiary of a trust created pursuant to the Fiduciary Law on Trusts for Supplemental Services for Beneficiaries with Disabilities, notwithstanding any contrary provision of the General Welfare Institutions Law or of a rule adopted pursuant to that Law, R.C. 1339.51(C) and (D) (see "Preexisting law" under "Fiduciary Law, etc.," above, and COMMENT 1) applied in determining the assets or resources of the patient or resident, the patient's or resident's estate, or the testator's estate and to claims arising under the General Welfare Institutions Law against the patient or resident, the patient's or resident's estate, or the testator's estate. (R.C. 5121.04(B)(10).)

Operation of the act

The act modifies the provision described in the preceding sentence by providing that if a patient or resident with or without dependents is the beneficiary of a trust created pursuant to the Fiduciary Law on Trusts for Supplemental Services for Beneficiaries with Disabilities, notwithstanding any contrary provision of the General Welfare Institutions Law or of a rule adopted pursuant to that Law, R.C. 1339.51(C) and (D) (see "Operation of the act--creation of the trust" under "Fiduciary Law, etc.," above, and COMMENT 1) apply in determining the assets or resources of the patient or resident, the patient's or resident's estate, the settlor (added by the act), or the settlor's (instead of the testator's) estate and to claims arising under the General Welfare Institutions Law against the patient or resident, the patient's or resident's estate, the settlor, or the settlor's estate. (R.C. 5121.04(B)(10).)

COMMENT

1. The general division of the court of common pleas and the probate court of the county in which the beneficiary of a trust resides or is confined have concurrent original jurisdiction to hear and determine actions pertaining to the trust. In any action pertaining to the trust in a court of common pleas or probate court and in any appeal of the action, all of the following apply to the trial or appellate court (R.C. 1339.51(C)):

(a) The court must render determinations consistent with the testator's or other settlor's intent in creating the trust, as evidenced by the terms of the trust instrument.

(b) The court may order the trustee to exercise discretion that the trust instrument confers upon the trustee only if the instrument contains specific instructions or conditions governing the exercise of that discretion and the trustee has failed to comply with the instructions or conditions. In issuing an order of that nature, the court must require the trustee to exercise the trustee's discretion only in accordance with the instructions or conditions.

(c) The court may order the trustee to maintain the trust and distribute assets in accordance with rules adopted by the Director of Mental Health or the Director of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities if the trustee has failed to comply with those rules.

2. In 1994, the trust principal maximum amount for a trust created under the Fiduciary Law on Trusts for Supplemental Services for Beneficiaries with Disabilities was $200,000. The maximum amount for a trust created prior to November 11, 1994, could be increased to $200,000. In 1995, the maximum amount for a trust created under that Law was $202,000. Each year thereafter, the maximum amount is the prior year's amount plus $2,000. (R.C. 1339.51(E).)
