BILL SUMMARY

- Requires the Ohio Housing Finance Agency to develop a program to provide housing for low-income grandparents who are guardians for grandchildren; have legal custody of grandchildren; or have permanent custody of grandchildren.

CONTENT AND OPERATION

Housing for low-income grandparents

(R.C. 175.22)

Under current law, the Ohio Housing Finance Agency must develop a program under which it makes grants, loans, loan guarantees, and loan subsidies to counties, municipal corporations, townships, local housing authorities, and nonprofit organizations to assist in activities that will provide housing and housing assistance for specifically targeted low- and moderate-income families and individuals. The agency also may make loans, loan guarantees, and loan subsidies to private developers and private lenders for the same purposes. The agency is required to adopt rules necessary to implement the program.

The bill requires the agency to develop a program to provide housing for low-income grandparents who are guardians for grandchildren; have legal custody of grandchildren; or have permanent custody of grandchildren. The program is required to be implemented by the agency within the parameters of its existing housing assistance program and within two years of the bill's effective date (but only to the extent that the agency has entered into contracts with persons to provide the housing by that time).

The bill specifies that the housing must be located in complexes in which occupancy is limited to grandparents and minor grandchildren when the grandparents are guardians for or have legal or permanent custody of those grandchildren. For the purpose of the bill, "grandparent" means the parent of a child's parent and includes the parent of a grandparent.
