Bill Analysis
Legislative Service Commission

H.B. 406

127th General Assembly
(As Introduced)

Reps. Peterson and B. Williams, Sykes, Chandler, Foley, Harwood, Okey, DeGeeter

BILL SUMMARY

- Prohibits corporal punishment in all public schools.
- Retains current law permitting public and private school employees to use force or restraint as reasonable and necessary to quell a disturbance, to obtain possession of a weapon, for self-defense, or to protect persons or property.

CONTENT AND OPERATION

Under current law, corporal punishment is prohibited in schools operated by a school district unless the district board adopts a policy permitting it. Before the board adopts such a policy, it must study a report of a local discipline task force comprised of teachers, administrators, nonlicensed school employees, school psychologists, medical professionals, including pediatricians when available, and representatives of parents' organizations.

The bill prohibits corporal punishment outright in all public schools, including school districts, community schools,¹ and Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) schools.² (R.C. 3314.03, 3319.088, 3319.41, and 3326.11.)

² A subcommittee of the Partnership for Continued Learning may select up to five STEM schools to operate beginning in fiscal year 2009 based on competitive proposals. Each STEM school must be operated under a collaborative consisting of a school district and other public and private entities.

The bill retains a current provision of law specifically permitting public and private school employees (including nonlicensed employees and school bus drivers), within their scope of employment, to use "force and restraint as is reasonable and necessary to quell a disturbance threatening physical injury to others, to obtain possession of weapons or other dangerous objects upon the person or within the control of the pupil, for the purpose of self-defense, or for the protection of persons or property." (R.C. 3319.41.)
