129th General Assembly
(As Passed by the Senate)

Sens. Bacon and Hughes, Patton, Wagoner, Faber, Balderson, Beagle, Brown, Burke, Cafaro, Coley, Eklund, Gentile, Hite, Kearney, Lehner, Manning, Niehaus, Obhof, Oelslager, Peterson, Sawyer, Schaffer, Seitz, Turner, Widener

BILL SUMMARY

- Requires that any judicial release hearing be held not less than 30 days or more than 60 days after the date on which the motion is filed, generally requires a prosecuting attorney who receives notice that a court has scheduled a judicial release hearing with respect to a first, second, or third degree felony offense of violence to notify the victim or the victim's representative of the hearing regardless of whether they requested notification, specifies that the notice is not to be given if the victim or victim's representative "opts out" of the mandatory notice and provides for notice of the opportunity to opt out of future notices, requires that an institutional summary report with respect to the offender be provided to the prosecuting attorney or a law enforcement agency upon request, requires the court to notify the prosecuting attorney of any judicial release, requires the prosecuting attorney to provide notice of any judicial release to the victim or the victim's representative, and prescribes the manner of providing the notices and of keeping records with respect to the notices.
- Provides that a victim who does not wish to receive any of the notices that the bill generally requires to be provided even when a victim has not requested the notice (i.e., the victim wishes to "opt out" of the notices) must make a request to the prosecutor or custodial agency that is to provide the particular notice that the notice not be provided to the victim, and specifies that the "opt out" provision also applies to a victim's representative or a member of a victim's immediate family that is authorized to receive any of the specified notices.
- Revises the Crime Victims Rights Law by: (1) providing that, if a defendant is incarcerated for aggravated murder, murder, or a first, second, or third degree felony offense of violence or under a life sentence or a juvenile offender has been charged with such an act, the notices that a prosecutor must give to a victim regarding a hearing for judicial release or under the Sexually Violent Predator Sentencing Law and the notices that a custodial agency must give to a victim generally must be given regardless of whether the victim requested notice but is not to be given if the victim "opts out" of the notices (if notice is given, the victim must be informed of the opportunity to opt out of future notices), (2) requiring the custodial agency to give similar notice to the prosecutor, the sentencing court, the law enforcement agency that arrested the defendant or juvenile offender if any of its officers was a victim, and any member of the victim's immediate family, (3) prescribes the manner of providing the notices and of keeping records with respect to the notices, and (4) requiring a custodial agency to give the victim some of the notices it must provide under that Law at least 60 days before the event about which the notice is given.

- Requires the Adult Parole Authority (APA) to adopt rules providing for a victim conference, upon request of the victim, a member of the victim's immediate family, or the victim's representative, prior to a parole hearing for a prisoner incarcerated for aggravated murder, murder, or a first, second, or third degree felony offense of violence or under a life sentence.
- Changes the time at which the APA must provide notices to a prosecuting attorney, judge, and victim or victim's representative of its recommendation of a pardon or commutation of sentence, or its granting of a parole, so that the notice must be given at least 60 days before the event, and provides that, upon the request of the prosecuting attorney or of any law enforcement agency, the APA must provide to the requesting prosecuting attorney and law enforcement agencies an institutional summary report with respect to the person.
- Specifies that the notices to a victim or victim's representative described in the preceding dot point generally must be given regardless of whether the victim or representative has requested the notices if the offender is incarcerated for aggravated murder, murder, or an "offense of violence" that is a first, second, or third degree felony or under a life sentence, specifies that the notices are not to be given if the victim or victim's representative "opts out" of the mandatory notice and provides for notice of the opportunity to opt out of future notices, specifies that the notices do not have to be given to a victim or victim's representative if notice was given to the victim or representative with respect to at least two prior considerations of pardon, commutation, or parole and the victim or representative did not respond with respect to the pending action, and prescribes the manner of providing the notices and of keeping records with respect to the notices.

- Specifies that the notices to a victim or victim's representative described in the second preceding dot point must inform the victim of the offense, the victim's representative, or a member of the victim's immediate family that the victim, the victim's representative, and the victim's immediate family has the right to give testimony at a full board hearing of the parole board and that the victim or victim's representative may contact the office of victims' services for further information if the person being considered for parole was convicted of or pleaded guilty to aggravated murder or murder, an "offense of violence" that is a first, second, or third degree felony, or an offense punished by a sentence of life imprisonment (language in italics added by bill).
- Requires the APA to notify the prosecutor at least two weeks prior to the release of a convict serving a sentence for aggravated murder or a sentence of life imprisonment from confinement in any state correctional institution pursuant to a pardon, commutation of sentence, parole, or completed prison term and requires notice to the prosecutor of the actual release pursuant to a pardon, commutation of sentence, parole, or completed prison term of a convict serving a sentence for committing aggravated murder, murder, or a first, second, or third degree felony or serving a sentence of life imprisonment.
- In the law governing the 80%-of-sentence-served release mechanism: (1) specifies that if the Director of the Department of Rehabilitation and Correction (DRC) submits a petition to the sentencing court for release of an offender under the mechanism and if the offender is incarcerated for aggravated murder, murder, or an "offense of violence" that is a first, second, or third degree felony, or under a life sentence, the Department generally must notify the victim or victim's representative of the filing of the petition regardless of whether the victim or representative requested the notification, (2) specifies that the notice is not to be given if the victim or victim's representative "opts out" of the mandatory notice and provides for notice of the opportunity to opt out of future notices, (3) prescribes the manner of providing the notices and of keeping records with respect to the notices, and (4) specifies that, when DRC provides the prosecutor with a copy of the petition, it also must provide a copy of the institutional summary report to any law enforcement agency that requests it.
- Changes the period of time for APA notice to a court of the pendency of the transfer of a prisoner to transitional control, notice to a victim prior to transferring a prisoner to transitional control, and posting on its Internet database of a pending transfer of a prisoner to transitional control, so that the notices must be given at least 60 days prior to the particular event, and specifies that, if a prisoner is incarcerated for aggravated murder, murder, or a first, second, or third degree felony offense of violence or under a life sentence, the notices to a victim of the upcoming transfer of a prisoner to transitional control generally must be given regardless of whether the victim requested notice, specifies that the notices are not to be given if the victim or victim's representative "opts out" of the mandatory notice, provides for notice of the opportunity to opt out of future notices, and prescribes the manner of providing the notices and of keeping records with respect to the notices.

- Regarding post-release control: (1) expands the categories of prisoners convicted of a third-degree felony for whom post-release control is mandatory, (2) provides that at least 30 days before the prisoner is released from imprisonment DRC generally must notify the victim and the victim's immediate family of the date on which the prisoner will be released, the period for which the prisoner will be under post-release control supervision, and the terms and conditions of the prisoner's post-release control regardless of whether the victim or victim's immediate family requested the notification, (3) specifies that the notices are not to be given if the victim or victim's representative "opts out" of the mandatory notice and provides for notice of the opportunity to opt out of future notices, (4) provides that at least 30 days before the prisoner is released from imprisonment and regardless of whether the victim or victim's immediate family has opted out of the notice DRC also must provide similar notice to the prosecuting attorney in the case and the law enforcement agency that arrested the prisoner if any of its officers was a victim, and (5) prescribes the manner of providing the notices and of keeping records with respect to the notices.
- With respect to a prisoner serving an indefinite prison term consisting of a specified minimum term and maximum term under the Sexually Violent Predator Sentencing Law, provides that upon the request of the prosecuting attorney or of any law enforcement agency: (1) before the Parole Board may terminate its control over the offender's service of the term, it must provide to the requesting prosecuting attorney and law enforcement agencies an institutional summary report, and (2) after the Board has transferred control over the prisoner's service of a term to the sentencing court, before the court may consider whether the prisoner should be permitted to serve the term outside of a prison or whether to terminate the term, DRC must provide to the requesting prosecuting attorney and law enforcement agencies an institutional summary report.
- Changes the period of time within which DRC must include on its Internet database information regarding an upcoming APA recommendation of a pardon or commutation of sentence for an inmate, parole hearing for an inmate, or transitional control hearing for an inmate, so that the information must be included at least 60 days before the recommendation or hearing, and expands the information that must be included on the database for each inmate to require that the database indicate whether any victim of the offense was a law enforcement officer if that fact is known.

- Requires DRC to: (1) at the end of each quarter, submit to the chairpersons of the committees of the Senate and the House of Representatives that consider criminal justice legislation a report on the number and results of parole hearings conducted during the quarter and a list of persons incarcerated for committing offenses of violence who were granted parole and a summary of the terms and conditions of their parole, and (2) upon request, provide a detailed statement of the reasons why a particular prisoner was granted parole to the law enforcement agency that arrested the prisoner, the prosecuting attorney, or any member of the General Assembly.
- Regarding full Board hearings of the Parole Board: (1) permits a victim of aggravated murder, murder, a first, second, or third degree felony offense of violence, or an offense punishable by life imprisonment (aggravated murder or murder under existing law), the victim's representative, or the spouse, parent or parents, sibling, or child or children of the victim to request the Parole Board to hold a full Board hearing regarding the proposed parole or re-parole of the offender, (2) specifies that the Board generally must give notice of the date, time, and place of the hearing to the victim regardless of whether the victim requested the notification, (3) specifies that the notice is not to be given if the victim "opts out" of the mandatory notice and provides for notice of the opportunity to opt out of future notices, (4) provides that, at least 30 days before the full Board hearing and regardless of whether the victim has opted out of the notice, the Board also must notify the prosecuting attorney in the case, the law enforcement agency that arrested the prisoner if any of its officers was a victim, and, if different than the victim, the person who requested the full Board hearing, (5) prescribes the manner of providing the notices and of keeping records with respect to the notices, (6) specifies that if the prosecuting attorney has not previously been sent an institutional summary report with respect to the prisoner, upon the request of the prosecuting attorney, the Board must include with the notice sent to the prosecuting attorney an institutional summary report, (7) specifies that, upon the request of a law enforcement agency that has not previously been sent an institutional summary report with respect to the prisoner, the Board also must send a copy of the report to the agency, and (8) specifies that, if the victim of the original offense died as a result of the offense and the offense was aggravated murder, murder, a first, second, or third degree felony offense of violence, or an offense punished by life imprisonment, the victim's family may show at a full Board hearing a video recording memorializing the victim.

- Specifies that its victim notice-related provisions regarding judicial release, in the Crime Victims Rights Law, regarding a pending commutation of sentence, parole, or transitional control, regarding the 80%-of-sentence-served release mechanism, regarding post-release control, and regarding full Board hearings of the Parole Board, all as described above, are to be known as "Roberta's Law."
- Expands the offense of "voluntary manslaughter" to also prohibit a person from engaging with a sexual motivation in any conduct currently prohibited under the offense.
- Provides that: (1) "voluntary manslaughter" when committed with a sexual motivation is a sexually oriented offense for purposes of the Sex Offender Registration and Notification Law, (2) an offender who commits, attempts or conspires to commit, or engages in complicity in committing voluntary manslaughter with a sexual motivation is a Tier III sex offender/child-victim offender, and (3) a delinquent child who commits, attempts or conspires to commit, or engages in complicity in committing voluntary manslaughter with a sexual motivation is a public registry-qualified juvenile offender registrant if the juvenile court imposes a serious youthful offender dispositional sentence on the child, the child was 14, 15, 16, or 17 years of age at the time of committing the act, and the court classifies the child a juvenile offender registrant.

CONTENT AND OPERATION

Judicial release

In general and time of hearing

Existing law provides that, upon the filing of a motion by an "eligible offender" or upon its own motion, a sentencing court may reduce the stated prison term of the offender through a judicial release. A specified period of time must expire after the offender begins serving his or her sentence before the offender may file a motion for judicial release. The specified period of time depends upon the offense for which the offender is serving the prison term. "Eligible offender" means any person serving a stated prison term of ten years or less when either the stated prison term does not include a mandatory prison term, or the stated prison term includes a mandatory prison term, and the person has served the mandatory prison term. "Eligible offender" does not include a person serving a stated prison term for any of a list of specified felonies committed while the person held a public office on Ohio. Upon receipt of a timely motion by an eligible offender or upon its own motion, the court may schedule a hearing on the motion. The court may deny the motion without a hearing but cannot grant the motion without a hearing. The law specifies procedures that govern judicial release proceedings.

If a court receives a timely motion for judicial release filed by an eligible offender or makes a timely motion for judicial release and schedules a hearing on the motion, the court must conduct the hearing in open court within a specified period of time. The bill modifies the time within which the court must conduct the hearing. Under the bill, except for an authorized delay described below, the hearing must be conducted in open court not less than 30 days or more than 60 days after the date on which the motion is filed. Currently, except for an authorized delay described below, the hearing must be conducted in open court within 60 days after the motion is filed. The "authorized delay" provision permits the court to delay the hearing for 180 additional days. Under the bill and existing law, if the court holds a hearing, it must enter a ruling on the motion within ten days after the hearing, and, if it denies the motion without a hearing, it must enter its ruling within 60 days after the motion is filed.¹

Victim notifications by prosecuting attorney and court

Notification of hearing

Currently, if a court schedules a judicial release hearing, it must notify the eligible offender and the head of the state correctional institution in which the offender is confined prior to the hearing. The head of the institution immediately must notify the appropriate person at the Department of Rehabilitation and Correction (DRC) of the hearing. DRC within 24 hours after receipt of the notice, must post on the Internet database it maintains the offender's name and specified information. If the court schedules a judicial release hearing, it promptly must give notice of the hearing to the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the eligible offender was indicted.²

Currently, upon receipt of the notice from the court, the prosecuting attorney must notify the victim of the offense for which the stated prison term was imposed or the victim's representative of the hearing if the victim or representative requested notification pursuant to R.C. 2930.16. Under the bill, when a prosecuting attorney receives this notice, the prosecuting attorney must do either of the following:³

(1) As under existing law, but subject to the provision described in the next paragraph, notify the victim of the offense for which the stated prison term was imposed or the victim's representative of the hearing if the victim or representative requested notification pursuant to R.C. 2930.16;

(2) If the offense was an "offense of violence" (see "Offenses of violence" under "Background," below) that is a first, second, or third degree felony, except as otherwise described in this paragraph, notify the victim or the victim's representative of the hearing regardless of whether the victim or the victim's representative requested notification. The notice is not to be given under this provision to a victim or representative if the victim has "opted out" of the notice (see "Opting out of otherwise mandatory notice," below). If the notice is to be provided, the prosecuting attorney may give the notice by any reasonable means, including regular mail, telephone, and electronic mail in accordance with the provision described below in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." If the notice is based on an offense committed prior to the bill's effective date, the notice also must include the opt-out information described below in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." The prosecuting attorney must keep a record of attempts to provide notice and of notices provided in accordance with the provision described below in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." The bill specifies that this provision, the bill's notice-related provisions described in the next paragraph, and the bill's notice-related provisions of R.C. 2930.16(D)(1), 2967.12(H), 2967.19(E)(1)(b), 2967.26(A)(3)(b), 2967.28(D)(1), and 5149.101(A)(2) are to be known as "Roberta's Law."

Notification of grant of judicial release

Currently, if a court grants a motion for judicial release, it must notify the appropriate person at DRC of the judicial release, and DRC must post notice of the release on the Internet database it maintains. Under the bill, if a court grants a motion for judicial release, it must notify the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the offender was indicted of the release. Unless the victim or victim's representative has "opted out" of the notice, the prosecuting attorney must notify the victim or representative of the judicial release in any manner, and in accordance with the same procedures, that apply regarding notice of the hearing, as described above. If the notice is based on an offense committed prior to the bill's effective date, the notice to the victim or victim's representative also must include the opt-out information described below in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions."⁴

Provision of institutional summary report to prosecuting attorney or law enforcement agency

The bill provides that, when a hearing is scheduled on a motion for judicial release, upon the request of the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the eligible offender was indicted or of any law enforcement agency, the head of the state correctional institution in which the eligible offender is confined must send to the requesting prosecuting attorney and law enforcement agencies a copy of the institutional summary report prepared with respect to the subject offender. The report must be sent at the same time that it currently is sent to the deciding court. The institutional summary report, currently required to be prepared for the deciding court's consideration and unchanged by the bill, covers the offender's participation while in prison in school, training, work, treatment, and other rehabilitative activities and any disciplinary action taken against the prisoner while so confined.⁵

Opting out of otherwise mandatory notice

The bill provides that a victim who does not wish to receive any of the notices that the bill generally requires to be provided even when a victim has not requested the notice, as described above in "Judicial release" and below in "Crime Victims Rights Law notice provisions," "Adult Parole Authority recommendations for pardon or commutation of sentence or grant of parole," "80%-of-sentence-served release mechanism," "Transfer to transitional control," "Post-release control," and "Full Board hearing of Parole Board," must make a request to the prosecutor or custodial agency that is to provide the particular notice that the notice not be provided to the victim. Unless the victim makes such a request, the prosecutor or custodial agency must provide the notices required to be given to a victim under the provisions listed in the preceding sentence in any manner, and in accordance with the procedures, specified in the particular provision. This provision also applies to a victim's representative or a member of a victim's immediate family that is authorized to receive any of the specified notices.⁶

Crime Victims Rights Law notice provisions

In general

R.C. Chapter 2930. sets forth the state's Crime Victims Rights Law. Several provisions of that Law specify certain notices that must be given in specified circumstances to the "victim" of a "crime" by a "prosecutor" or "custodial agency" (see "Crime Victims Rights Law definitions" under "Background," below, for definitions of those terms) if the offender or delinquent child is sentenced to a prison term or term of institutionalization. The notices relate to the potential release of the offender or delinquent child and related matters.⁷ Except for a few specified notices, a victim who wishes to receive any of those notices must make a request for the notice to the prosecutor or the custodial agency that is to provide the notice. If the victim does not make such a request, the prosecutor or custodial agency is not required to provide any of those notices. A prosecutor or custodial agency that is required to furnish any of those notices must give the particular notice to the victim at the address or telephone number provided by the victim. A victim must inform the prosecutor or custodial agency of the name, address, or telephone number of the victim and of any change to that information.⁸

After a prosecution in a case has been commenced, the prosecutor or a designee of the prosecutor, or a juvenile court in specified cases, to the extent practicable, promptly must provide to the victim certain specified information. Among the information that the prosecutor or the juvenile court must provide to the victim is notice that most notifications under the Crime Victims Rights Law, including the notices when the offender is sentenced to a prison term, will be given to the victim only if the victim asks to receive the notification.⁹

Operation of the bill

Giving up notice regardless of request

The bill modifies the Crime Victims Rights Law provisions that pertain to victim notification of the potential release of an offender or delinquent child who has been sentenced to a prison term or term of institutionalization, and related matters, in the following ways:

⁷ R.C. 2930.16(B) and (C).

⁸ R.C. 2930.03(B)(1), (C), and (D).

⁹ R.C. 2930.06.

(1) Currently, upon the victim's request, the prosecutor promptly must notify the victim of any hearing for judicial release of the defendant, of any hearing for release of the defendant pursuant to the 80%-of-sentence-served release mechanism, or of any hearing for judicial release or early release of the alleged juvenile offender and of the victim's right to make a statement with respect to such a release. The court must notify the victim of its ruling in each of those hearings and on each of those applications. Under the bill, the prosecutor also must notify the victim of any such hearing in the circumstances specified in (4), below, regardless of whether the victim requested notice.¹⁰

(2) Currently, if an offender is sentenced to a prison term under the Sexually Violent Predator Sentencing Law, upon the request of the victim of the crime, the prosecutor promptly must notify the victim of any hearing to be conducted pursuant to that Law to determine whether to modify the requirement that the offender serve the entire prison term in a state correctional facility, whether to continue, revise, or revoke any existing modification of that requirement, or whether to terminate the prison term in accordance with that Law. The court must notify the victim of any order issued at the conclusion of the hearing. Under the bill, the prosecutor also must notify the victim of any such hearing in the circumstances specified in (4), below, regardless of whether the victim requested notice.¹¹

(3) Currently, upon the victim's request made at any time before the particular notice would be due, the "custodial agency" of a defendant or alleged juvenile offender must give the victim any of the following that is applicable (under the bill, the custodial agency also must notify the victim of any such information in the circumstances specified in (4), below, regardless of whether the victim requested notice)¹²:

(a) At least three weeks before the Adult Parole Authority (APA) recommends a pardon or commutation of sentence for the defendant or at least three weeks prior to a hearing before the Authority regarding a grant of parole to the defendant, notice of the victim's right to submit a statement regarding the impact of the defendant's release and, if applicable, of the victim's right to appear at a full board hearing of the Parole Board to give testimony as authorized by R.C. 5149.101;

(b) At least three weeks before the defendant is transferred to transitional control under R.C. 2967.26, notice of the pendency of the transfer and of the victim's right to submit a statement regarding the impact of the transfer;

¹⁰ R.C. 2930.16(B)(1).

¹¹ R.C. 2930.16(B)(2).

¹² R.C. 2930.16(C).

(c) At least 30 days before DYS's release authority holds a release review, release hearing, or discharge review for the alleged juvenile offender, notice of the pendency of the review or hearing, of the victim's right to make an oral or written statement regarding the impact of the crime upon the victim or regarding the possible release or discharge, and, if applicable, of the victim's right to attend and make statements or comments at the hearing as authorized by R.C. 5139.56;

(d) Prompt notice of the defendant's or alleged juvenile offender's escape from a facility of the custodial agency in which the defendant or alleged juvenile offender was incarcerated or placed after commitment, of the defendant's or alleged juvenile offender's absence without leave from a mental health or developmental disabilities facility or from other custody, and of the capture of the defendant or alleged juvenile offender after an escape or absence;

(e) Notice of the defendant's or alleged juvenile offender's death while in confinement or custody;

(f) Notice of the defendant's or alleged juvenile offender's release from confinement or custody and the terms and conditions of the release.

(g) To reflect an existing provision of the 80%-of-sentence-served release mechanism (see "80%-of-sentence-served release mechanism," below), the bill adds a requirement that the custodial agency give notice of the filing of a petition by DRC's Director requesting the early release of the defendant under the mechanism.¹³

(4) The bill provides that, if a defendant is incarcerated for the commission of aggravated murder, murder, or an "offense of violence" (see "Offenses of violence" under "Background," below) that is a first, second, or third degree felony, or is under a sentence of life imprisonment, or if an alleged juvenile offender has been charged with the commission of an act that would be any such offense if committed by an adult, except as otherwise described in this paragraph, the prosecutor or custodial agency must give the notices described above in paragraphs (1), (2), and (3)(a) to (g) regardless of whether the victim requested the notification. The notices are not to be given under this provision to a victim if the victim has "opted out" of the notice. Regardless of whether the victim has "opted out" of the notice, the custodial agency must give similar notice to the prosecutor in the case, to the sentencing court, to the law enforcement agency that arrested the defendant or alleged juvenile offender if any officer of that agency was a victim of the offense, and to any member of the victim's "immediate family" who requests notification. If the notice given under this provision to the victim is based on an offense committed prior to the bill's effective date and if the prosecutor or custodial agency has not previously successfully provided any notice to the victim under this provision or under the existing provisions described above in (1) to (3) with respect to that offense and the offender who committed it, the notice also must inform the victim that the victim may "opt out" of any further notices with respect to that offense and the offender who committed it and must describe the procedures to opt out notice. If the notice to the victim pertains to a parole hearing, the notice also must inform the victim that the victim, a member of the victim's immediate family, or the victim's representative may request a victim conference, and must provide an explanation of a victim conference.

The prosecutor or custodial agency may give the notices by any reasonable means, including regular mail, telephone, and electronic mail. If the prosecutor or custodial agency attempts to provide notice to a victim under this provision but the attempt is unsuccessful because the prosecutor or custodial agency is unable to locate the victim, is unable to provide the notice by its chosen method because it cannot determine the mailing address, telephone number, or electronic mail address at which to provide the notice, or if notice sent by mail is returned, the prosecutor or agency must make another attempt to provide the notice to the victim. If the second attempt is unsuccessful, the prosecutor or agency must make at least one more attempt to provide the notice. If the notice is based on an offense committed prior to the bill's effective date, in each attempt to provide the notice to the victim, the notice must include the opt-out information described above. The prosecutor or custodial agency must keep a record of attempts and notices provided, as described below in (5). The bill specifies that the provisions described in this paragraph and the bill's notice-related provisions of R.C. 2929.20(E)(2) and (K), 2967.12(H), 2967.19(E)(1)(b), 2967.26(A)(3)(b), 2967.28(D)(1), and 5149.101(A)(2) are to be known as "Roberta's Law."¹⁴

(5) The bill requires each prosecutor and custodial agency that attempts to give any notice under the provision described above in (4) to keep a record of all attempts to give the notice. The record must indicate the person who was to be the recipient of the notice, the date and manner of the attempt, and the person who made the attempt. If the attempt is successful, the record must indicate that fact. The record must be kept in a manner that allows public inspection of attempts and notices given to persons other than victims without revealing the names, addresses, or other identifying information about the victims. The record of attempts and notices given to victims is not a public record, but the prosecutor or custodial agency must provide upon request a copy of that record to a prosecuting attorney, judge, law enforcement agency, or member of the General Assembly. The record of attempts and notices given to persons other than victims is a public record. A record kept under this provision may be indexed by offender name, or in any other manner determined by the prosecutor or custodial agency. Each prosecutor or custodial agency must determine the procedures and manner for keeping the record under this provision, subject to the requirements described in this paragraph.¹⁵

(6) The bill changes the time at which some of the notices specified above in paragraphs (1), (2), and (3)(a) to (g) must be provided. The notice described above in paragraph (3)(a) must be provided at least 60 days before the APA recommends a pardon or commutation of sentence for the defendant or at least 60 days prior to a hearing before the APA regarding a grant of parole to the defendant. The notice described above in paragraph (3)(b) must be provided at least 60 days before the defendant is transferred to transitional control. The notice described above in paragraph (3)(c) must be provided at least 60 days before DYS's release authority holds a release review, release hearing, or discharge review for the alleged offender.¹⁶

(7) The bill makes changes in the provisions described above in "In general" that pertain to procedures and notifications regarding victim requests to conform them to the changes described in paragraphs (1) to (4), above.¹⁷

Adult Parole Authority Rules – victim conference prior to a parole hearing

The bill requires the APA to adopt rules under the Administrative Procedure Act providing for a victim conference, upon request of the victim, a member of the victim's immediate family, or the victim's representative, prior to a parole hearing for a prisoner incarcerated for aggravated murder, murder, or an "offense of violence" that is a first, second, or third degree felony or is under a sentence of life imprisonment. The rules must provide for at least the following: (1) subject to the provision described in clause (3), below, attendance by the victim, members of the "victim's immediate family," the victim's representative, and, if practicable, other individuals, (2) allotment of up to one hour for the conference, and (3) a specification of the number of persons specified in clause (1), above, who may be present at any single victim conference, if limited by DRC as described in the next paragraph.

DRC may limit, to not less than three, the number of persons specified in clause (1) of the preceding paragraph who may be present at any single victim conference. If DRC limits the number who may be present at any single victim conference, it must permit and schedule, upon request of the victim, a member of the victim's immediate family, or the victim's representative, multiple victim conferences for the persons specified in clause (1) of the preceding paragraph.¹⁸

Adult Parole Authority recommendations for pardon or commutation of sentence or grant of parole

In general

Currently, except for a release that is related to the state's shock incarceration program, at least three weeks before the APA recommends any pardon or commutation of sentence, or grants any parole, it must send a notice of the pendency of the pardon, commutation, or parole, setting forth specified information (see "Content of the notices," below) to the prosecuting attorney and the judge or presiding judge of the court of common pleas of the county in which the indictment against the person was found. It also must post on the Internet database it maintains the offender's name and specified information. Further, if a request for notification has been made pursuant to the Crime Victims Rights Law, DRC's Office of Victim Services or the APA must send the notice to the victim or the victim's representative at least three weeks prior to taking any of the specified actions. When notice of the pendency of any pardon, commutation of sentence, or parole has been given to a judge or prosecutor or posted on the Internet database and a hearing on the pending action is continued to a date certain, the APA must provide notice of the further consideration of the pardon, commutation, or parole at least three weeks before the further consideration. When notice of the pendency of any pardon, commutation, or parole has been given to a victim or victim's representative and the hearing on it is continued to a date certain, the APA must give notice of the further consideration to the victim or the victim's representative under R.C. 2930.03.

In case of an application for the pardon or commutation of sentence of a person sentenced to capital punishment, the Governor may modify the requirements of notification and publication if there is not sufficient time for compliance with the requirements before the date fixed for the execution of sentence. Special notice provisions apply to an offender serving a prison term under the state's Sexually Violent Predator Sentencing Law. In addition to and independent of any other rights provided by statute, any person may send to the APA at any time prior to its recommending a pardon or commutation or granting a parole for the offender a written statement relative to the offense and the pending action.¹⁹

¹⁸ R.C. 2930.16(E) to (G).

¹⁹ R.C. 2967.12.

Operation of the bill

The bill revises the existing notification provisions described above as follows:

(1) Under the bill, the APA must provide notices to a prosecuting attorney and judge of its recommendation of a pardon or commutation of sentence, or the granting of a parole, at least 60 days before the APA recommends any pardon or commutation of sentence, or grants any parole. This change of the time of the notice also applies to the APA's and Office of Victim Services' notice to the victim or victim's representative.²⁰

(2) In the existing provision that requires the notices to the prosecuting attorney and court, the bill provides that, upon the request of the prosecuting attorney or of any law enforcement agency, the APA must provide to the requesting prosecuting attorney and law enforcement agencies an institutional summary report that covers the subject person's participation while confined in a state correctional institution in training, work, and other rehabilitative activities and any disciplinary action taken against the person while so confined. If a prosecuting attorney or law enforcement agency is provided a copy of the institutional summary and if the hearing on the pardon, commutation, or parole is continued to a date certain, the APA must include with the notice of further consideration sent to the prosecuting attorney any new information about the subject person that relates to activities and actions of a type covered by the report and must send to the law enforcement agency a report that provides notice of the further consideration and includes any such new information with respect to the subject person.²¹

(3) If the hearing on the pardon, commutation, or parole of a prisoner is continued to a date certain, the bill requires that the notice of the further consideration of the pardon, commutation, or parole be provided to the proper judge and prosecuting attorney and posted on the Internet database at least 60 days before the further consideration.²²

(4) The bill specifies that, if a defendant is incarcerated aggravated murder, murder, or an "offense of violence" that is a first, second, or third degree felony or is under a sentence of life imprisonment, except as otherwise described in this paragraph, DRC's Office of Victim Services or the APA must give the notice of the pardon, commutation, or parole consideration described above in "In general" to the victim or victim's representative regardless of whether the victim or representative requested the notification. The notice is not to be given under this provision to a victim or representative if the victim or representative has "opted out" of the notice. The notice does not have to be given under this provision to a victim or victim's representative if notice was given to the victim or representative with respect to at least two prior considerations of pardon, commutation, or parole of a person and the victim or representative did not provide any statement relative to victimization and the pending action, did not attend any hearing regarding the pending action, and did not otherwise respond to the Office with respect to the pending action. Regardless of whether the victim or representative has "opted out" of the notice, the Office or APA must give similar notices to the law enforcement agency that arrested the defendant if any officer of that agency was a victim of the offense and to any "member of the victim's immediate family" (see (5), below) who requests notification. If notice is to be given under this provision, the Office or APA may give notice by any reasonable means, including, regular mail, telephone, and electronic mail in accordance with the provision described above in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." If the notice is based on an offense committed prior to the bill's effective date, the notice to the victim or victim's representative also must include the opt-out information described above in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." The Office or APA must keep a record of attempts to provide notice and of notices provided in accordance with the provision described above in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." The bill specifies that the provisions described in this paragraph and the bill's notice-related provisions of R.C. 2929.20(E)(2) and (K), 2930.16(D)(1), 2967.19(E)(1)(b), 2967.26(A)(3)(b), 2967.28(E)(1), and 5149.101(A)(2) are to be known as "Roberta's Law."²³

(5) The bill defines "victim's immediate family" for purposes of the provisions described above as the mother, father, spouse, sibling, or child of the victim, provided that in no case does "victim's immediate family" include the offender with respect to whom the notice in question applies.²⁴

Content of the notices

Under existing law, largely unchanged by the bill, the notices to the prosecuting attorney, judge, and victim described above must include the name of the person on whose behalf the recommendation or grant is made, the offense of which the person was convicted, the time of conviction, and the term of the person's sentence. The notice to the victim also must inform the victim or the victim's representative that the victim or representative may send a written statement relative to the victimization and the pending action to the APA and that, if the APA receives any written statement prior to ²³ R.C. 2967.12(B) and (H).

recommending a pardon or commutation or granting a parole for a person, it will consider the statement before it recommends a pardon or commutation or grants a parole. If the person is being considered for parole, the notice must inform the victim or the victim's representative that a full Board hearing of the Parole Board may be held and that the victim or victim's representative may contact the Office of Victim Services for further information. If the person being considered for parole was convicted of aggravated murder or murder, the notice must inform the victim of that offense, the victim's representative, or a member of the victim's immediate family that the victim, the representative, and the immediate family have the right to give testimony at a full Board hearing of the Parole Board (but see "Full-board hearings of the Parole Board," below for changes in the provision governing the making of such a request) and that the victim or representative may contact the Office of Victim Services for further information.²⁵

Under the bill, if the person being considered for parole was convicted of or pleaded guilty to aggravated murder or murder, an "offense of violence" that is a first, second, or third degree felony, or an offense punished by a sentence of life imprisonment (language in italics added by bill), the notice must inform the victim of that offense, the victim's representative, or a member of the victim's immediate family that the victim, the victim's representative, and the victim's immediate family has the right to give testimony at a full board hearing of the parole board and that the victim or victim's representative may contact the office of victims' services for further information.²⁶

Release from confinement of a convict serving a prison term for a serious felony

In general

Currently, except for a release of a person serving a sentence under the state's Sexually Violent Predator Sentencing Law, at least two weeks before any convict who is serving a sentence for committing a first, second, or third degree felony is released from confinement in any state correctional institution pursuant to a pardon, commutation of sentence, parole, or completed prison term, the APA must send notice of the release to the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the indictment of the convict was found. The notice must contain specified information (see "Content of the notices," below) and may be contained in a weekly list of all felons of the first, second, or third degree who are scheduled for release. The notice does not have to be provided if, upon

²⁵ R.C. 2967.12(A) and (B).

²⁶ R.C. 2967.12(B).

admission to the state correctional institution, the offender has less than 14 days to serve on the sentence.²⁷

Operation of the bill

The bill expands the existing release notification provision described above and enacts a new release notification provision as follows:²⁸

(1) It expands the existing release notification provision so that it also applies to a convict who is serving a sentence for aggravated murder or murder or a sentence of life imprisonment.

(2) It specifies that, except for a release of a person serving a sentence under the state's Sexually Violent Predator Sentencing Law, if a convict who is serving a sentence for committing aggravated murder, murder, or a first, second, or third degree felony or who is serving a sentence of life imprisonment is released from confinement pursuant to a pardon, commutation of sentence, parole, or completed prison term, the APA must send notice of the release to the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the indictment of the convict was filed. The notice must be sent to the appropriate prosecuting attorney at the end of the month in which the convict is released and may be contained in a monthly list of all convicts who are released in that month and for whom this provision requires a notice to be sent to that prosecuting attorney. This notice must contain the same information that must be in the existing notice to be provided to prosecuting attorneys prior to the release of the convict, and it does not have to be provided if, upon admission to the state correctional institution, the offender has less than 14 days to serve on the sentence.

Content of the notices

Under existing law, unchanged by the bill, the notices described above must contain all of the following: (1) the name of the convict being released, (2) the date of the release, (3) the offense for which the convict was convicted and incarcerated, (4) the date of the conviction pursuant to which the convict was incarcerated, (5) the sentence imposed for that conviction, (6) the length of any supervision the convict will be under, (7) the name, business address, and business phone number of the convict's supervising officer, and (8) the address at which the convict will reside.²⁹

80%-of-sentence-served release mechanism

In general

Existing law provides a release mechanism that may be used in specified circumstances with respect to prisoners who have served 80% of their stated prison term. Under the mechanism, DRC's Director may petition the sentencing court for the release from prison of an inmate who is serving a stated prison term of one year or more, who is eligible under specified criteria, and who has served at least 80% of the stated prison term that remains to be served after becoming eligible for use of the mechanism. An inmate serving a stated prison term that includes a "disqualifying prison term" never is eligible for use of the 80%-of-sentence-served release mechanism, an inmate serving a stated prison term that includes one or more "restricting prison terms" is not eligible for release during the restricting prison terms but becomes eligible after having fully served each restricting prison term if the offender has an "eligible prison term" to serve after service of the restricting prison terms, and an inmate serving a stated prison term that consists solely of one or more eligible prison terms becomes eligible upon commencement of service of the term ("disqualifying prison term," "restricting prison term," and "eligible prison term" all are defined terms).

When the Director submits a petition under this provision for release of a prisoner, DRC promptly must provide to the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the offender was indicted a copy of the petition, a copy of the institutional summary report prepared by DRC, and any other information provided to the sentencing court. DRC also must promptly give notice of the filing of the petition to any victim of the offender or victim's representative of any victim of the offender who is registered with DRC's Office of Victim's Services.

If a court grants a petition under the mechanism, it must order the release of the inmate and place the inmate under one or more appropriate community control sanctions under appropriate conditions and under the supervision of the department of probation that serves the court, reserve the right to reimpose the sentence that it reduced and from which the offender was released if the offender violates the sanction, and if the sentence from which the inmate is being released was imposed for a first or second degree felony, consider ordering that the inmate be monitored by means of a GPS device.³⁰

Operation of the bill

The bill revises the existing provisions regarding victim and victim's representative notification described above to specify that if DRC's Director submits a petition to the sentencing court for release of an offender under the 80%-of-sentence-served release mechanism and if the offender is incarcerated for aggravated murder, murder, an "offense of violence" that is a first, second, or third degree felony, or an offense punished by a sentence of life imprisonment, except as otherwise described in this paragraph, DRC must notify the victim or victim's representative of the filing of the petition regardless of whether the victim or representative has registered with the Office of Victim's Services. The notice is not to be given under this provision to a victim or representative if the victim or representative has "opted out" of the notice. If notice is to be given under this provision, DRC may give notice by any reasonable means, including, regular mail, telephone, and electronic mail in accordance with the provision described above in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." If the notice is based on an offense committed prior to the bill's effective date, the notice also must include the opt-out information described above in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." DRC must keep a record of attempts to provide notice and of notices provided in accordance with the provision described above in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." The bill specifies that this provision and the bill's notice-related provisions of R.C. 2929.20(E)(2) and (K), 2930.16(D)(1), 2967.12(H), 2967.19(E)(1)(b), 2967.26(A)(3)(b), 2967.28(D)(1), and 5149.101(A)(2) are to be known as "Roberta's Law."³¹

Also, in the existing provision that specifies that, if DRC's Director submits a petition to the sentencing court for release of an offender under the mechanism, DRC must provide the prosecutor with a copy of the petition, a copy of the institutional summary report, and any other information provided to the court, the bill requires that DRC provide a copy of the institutional summary report to any law enforcement agency that requests it.³²

Transitional control program

In general

Existing law authorizes DRC to establish a transitional control program for the purpose of closely monitoring a prisoner's adjustment to community supervision during the final 180 days of the prisoner's confinement. If DRC establishes any such program, the APA may transfer eligible prisoners to transitional control status under the program during the final 180 days of their confinement and under the terms and conditions established by DRC, must provide for the confinement in a specified manner of each prisoner so transferred, and must supervise each prisoner so transferred in one or more community control sanctions. If a prisoner is transferred to transitional control, upon successful completion of the period of transitional control, the prisoner may be released on parole or under post-release control. The rules establishing any such program must include certain specified criteria, including eligibility and confinement criteria. Under existing law, the APA and DRC must provide several notices regarding the potential and actual transfer of a prisoner to transitional control.³³

³¹ R.C. 2967.19(E)(1)(b).

³² R.C. 2967.19(D) and (E)(1).

Adult Parole Authority notification to sentencing court prior to transfer

Currently, at least three weeks prior to transferring to transitional control a prisoner who is serving a prison term, the APA must give notice of the pendency of the transfer to transitional control to the court of common pleas of the county in which the indictment against the prisoner was found and of the fact that the court may disapprove the transfer and must include a report prepared by the head of the state correctional institution in which the prisoner is confined that covers the offender's participation while in prison in school, vocational training, work, treatment, and other rehabilitative activities and any disciplinary action taken against the prisoner while so confined. If the court disapproves of the transfer of the prisoner to transitional control, it must notify the APA of the disapproval within 30 days after receipt of the notice. If the court timely disapproves the transfer, the APA cannot proceed with the transfer. If the court does not timely disapprove the transfer, the APA may transfer the prisoner to transitional control. The bill modifies the provision requiring the notification to the court. Under the bill, the APA must give the court the notice regarding the pendency of the transfer of a prisoner to transitional control and of the right to disapprove the transfer at least 60 days prior to the transfer. The bill also names the report sent to the court the institutional summary report, but does not change the content of the report.³⁴

Adult Parole Authority notice to victim prior to transfer

Currently, if the victim of an offense for which a prisoner was sentenced to a prison term has requested notification under the Crime Victims Rights Law and has provided DRC with the victim's name and address, the APA, at least three weeks prior to transferring the prisoner to transitional control, must notify the victim of the pendency of the transfer and of the victim's right to submit a statement to the APA regarding the impact of the transfer of the prisoner to transitional control. If the victim subsequently submits a statement of that nature to the APA, it must consider the statement in deciding whether to transfer the prisoner to transitional control. The bill modifies the provision requiring the notification to the victim as follows:³⁵

(1) Under the bill, if the victim of an offense for which a prisoner was sentenced to a prison term has requested notification under the Crime Victims Rights Law and has provided DRC with the victim's name and address or if the provision described in (2) below, applies, the APA, at least 60 days prior to transferring the prisoner to transitional control, must provide the victim the notice regarding the pendency of the transfer of a prisoner to transitional control and the right to submit a statement.

(2) Under the bill, if a prisoner is incarcerated for the commission of aggravated murder, murder, or an "offense of violence" (see "Offenses of violence," under "Background," below) that is a first, second, or third degree felony or under a sentence of life imprisonment, except as otherwise described in this paragraph, the APA must give the notice described in paragraph (1), above, regardless of whether the victim requested the notification. The notice is not to be given under this provision to a victim if the victim has "opted out" of the notice. If the notice is to be provided to a victim, the APA may give the notice by any reasonable means, including regular mail, telephone, and electronic mail in accordance with the provision described above in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." If the notice is based on an offense committed prior to the bill's effective date, the notice also must include the opt-out information described above in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." The APA must keep a record of attempts to provide notice and of notices provided in accordance with the provision described above in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." The bill specifies that the provisions described in this paragraph and the bill's notice-related provisions of R.C. 2929.20(E)(2) and (K), 2930.16(D)(1), 2967.12(H), 2967.19(E)(1)(b), 2967.28(D)(1), and 5149.101(A)(2) are to be known as "Roberta's Law."

Department of Rehabilitation and Correction Internet posting prior to transfer

Currently, DRC, at least three weeks prior to a hearing to transfer a prisoner to transitional control, must post on the Internet database it is required to maintain the prisoner's name and certain specified information. In addition to and independent of any right or duty of a person to present information or make a statement, any person may send to the APA at any time prior to its transfer of the prisoner to transitional control a written statement regarding the transfer of the prisoner to transitional control. The APA must consider each statement so submitted in deciding whether to transfer the prisoner to transitional control. Under the bill, DRC must post on the Internet database

the name of a prisoner who is to be transferred to transitional control and the specified information at least 60 days prior to the transfer.³⁶

Post-release control

In general

Currently, persons sentenced to prison for specified categories of felonies must be subjected to mandatory post-release control for either three or five years, depending upon the felony, upon their release from imprisonment. Persons sentenced to prison for a felony not in any of the specified categories may be subjected, at the discretion of the Parole Board, to post-release control for up to three years upon their release from imprisonment. Before the release from imprisonment of a prisoner who is to be subjected to post-release control, the Parole Board must impose upon the prisoner one or more post-release control sanctions to apply during the prisoner's period of post-release control. The post-release control conditions must include a condition that the individual not leave the state without permission and abide by the law and may include other conditions, including any community residential sanction, community nonresidential sanction, or financial sanction.³⁷

Operation of the bill

Mandatory post-release control for third degree felony

The bill modifies the circumstances in which post-release control is mandatory for an offender convicted of a third degree felony. Under the bill, unless reduced by the Parole Board in accordance with a specified existing procedure when it is authorized to do so, the Board must impose a mandatory period of post-release control of three years upon an offender convicted of a third degree felony that is an "offense of violence" and is not a felony sex offense. Currently, unless reduced by the Parole Board in accordance with the specified procedure, an offender convicted of a third degree felony is subject to the mandatory three-year period of post-release control only if the third degree felony is not a felony sex offense and in the commission of which the offender caused or threatened to cause physical harm to a person. The bill does not affect the other existing circumstances in which the Parole Board must impose a mandatory period of post-release control – a five-year period on an offender convicted of a first degree felony or a felony sex offense, and a three-year period on an offender convicted of a second degree felony that is not a felony sex offense.³⁸

Victim, family, prosecuting attorney, and law enforcement agency notification by DRC

Under the bill, at least 30 days before the prisoner is released from prison, except as otherwise described in this paragraph, DRC must notify the victim and the "victim's immediate family," of the date on which the prisoner will be released, the period for which the prisoner will be under post-release control supervision, and the terms and conditions of the prisoner's post-release control regardless of whether the victim or victim's immediate family requested the notification. The notice is not to be given to a victim or victim's immediate family if the victim or immediate family has "opted out" of the notice. At least 30 days before the prisoner is released from imprisonment and regardless of whether the victim or victim's immediate family has "opted out" of the notice, DRC also must provide similar notice to the prosecuting attorney in the case and the law enforcement agency that arrested the prisoner if any officer of that agency was a victim of the offense.

DRC may give the notices described in this paragraph by any reasonable means, including regular mail, telephone, and electronic mail, and must follow notice-provision procedures similar to those described above in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." If the notice to the victim or victim's immediate family is based on an offense committed prior to the bill's effective date and if DRC has not previously successfully provided any notice to the victim or immediate family under R.C. 2930.16(B) to (D) with respect to that offense and the offender who committed it (see "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions," above), the notice also must inform the victim or immediate family that the victim or immediate family may "opt out" of further notices with respect to that offense and the offender who committed it and must describe the procedure for opting out. DRC must keep a record of attempts to provide notice and of notices provided in accordance with the provision described above in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." The bill specifies that the provisions described in this paragraph and the bill's notice-related provisions of R.C. 2929.20(E)(2) and (K), 2930.16(D)(1), 2967.12(H), 2967.19(E)(1)(b), 2967.26(A)(3)(b), and 5149.101(A)(2) are to be known as "Roberta's Law."³⁹

Sexually Violent Predator Sentencing Law

In general

The existing Sexually Violent Predator Sentencing Law is set forth in R.C. Chapter 2971. Under its provisions, persons convicted of certain offenses and also convicted of a sexually violent predator specification, or persons convicted of certain sex-related offenses, are sentenced either to life imprisonment without parole or to an indefinite prison term sentence consisting of a specified minimum term and a specified maximum term (generally, life imprisonment, but in certain circumstances, 25 years). An offender sentenced to a term of life imprisonment without parole must serve the entire term in a prison. An offender sentenced to an indefinite prison term, must serve the entire term unless, pursuant to a specified release procedure, the sentencing court modifies or terminates the prison term.⁴⁰ Under the release procedure, at any time after the offender has served the minimum term imposed under the sentence, the Parole Board may terminate its control over the offender's service of the prison term if it makes specified findings at a hearing. The offender and the prosecuting attorney may attend, and make statements at, the hearing. The law provides procedures that must be followed, and findings that must be made, at the hearing. If the Board terminates its control over the offender's service of the term, it immediately must provide written notice of its termination of the control to DRC, the sentencing court, and the prosecuting attorney and, after the termination, the sentencing court has control over the offender's service of the term.⁴¹

After the Parole Board transfers its control over an offender's service of an indefinite prison term as described in the preceding paragraph, the court has control over the offender's service of that prison term, subject to the court's termination of that term. After the transfer of control, the court must conduct in specified circumstances, and may conduct in other circumstances, a hearing to determine whether to modify the requirement that the offender serve the entire prison term in a prison or whether to terminate that term. The court must provide notice of the date, time, place, and purpose of the hearing to the offender, the prosecuting attorney, DRC, and the APA. The law provides procedures that must be followed, and findings that must be made, at the hearing. If the court modifies the requirement that the offender serve the entire prison term in a prison, it must order the APA to supervise the offender while outside of the prison. The modification does not terminate the prison term, but serves only to suspend the requirement that the offender serve the entire term in prison. If the court terminates the prison term, it must place the offender on conditional release for five years and order the APA to supervise the offender during that period. At the end of the five-year period, the court conducts a hearing to determine whether the termination of the offender's prison term should be finalized, whether the period of conditional release should be extended, or whether another type of action should be taken. The court must notify the offender and the prosecuting attorney of the date, time, place, and purpose of the hearing.⁴²

⁴¹ R.C. 2971.04.

Provision of institutional summary report to prosecuting attorney or law enforcement agency

The bill provides that, with respect to a prisoner serving an indefinite prison term consisting of a specified minimum term and maximum term under the Sexually Violent Predator Sentencing Law, upon the request of the prosecuting attorney or of any law enforcement agency:⁴³

(1) Before the Parole Board may terminate its control over the offender's service of the prison term, the Board must provide to the requesting prosecuting attorney and law enforcement agencies an institutional summary report prepared by DRC that covers the prisoner's participation while confined in a prison in training, work, and other rehabilitative activities and any disciplinary action taken against the prisoner while so confined;

(2) After the Parole Board has transferred control over the prisoner's service of a prison term to the sentencing court, before the court may consider whether the prisoner should be permitted to serve the term outside of a prison or whether to terminate the term, DRC must provide to the requesting prosecuting attorney and law enforcement agencies an institutional summary report it prepares that covers the matters described in paragraph (1), above.

Department of Rehabilitation and Correction Internet database

In general

Existing law requires DRC to establish and operate on the Internet a database that contains specified information for each inmate in its custody under a sentence imposed for a conviction of or plea of guilty to any offense. Some of the information relates to the inmate and the crime for which the inmate is in custody, and some of it relates to a possible release of the inmate or transfer of the inmate out of a prison.⁴⁴

Operation of the bill

The bill modifies some of the provisions that describe the information that must be on the Internet database that relates to a possible release of an inmate in DRC's custody or a possible transfer of an inmate out of a prison. Under the bill's modifications, for each inmate included on the database, the database must contain all of the following that relates to a possible release of the inmate in DRC's custody or a possible transfer of the inmate out of a prison:⁴⁵

(1) For each offense for which the inmate was sentenced to a prison term or term of imprisonment and is in DRC's custody, whether any victim of the offense was a law enforcement officer if that fact is known (this is in addition to the information currently required, which includes the name of the crime, the Revised Code section violated, the gender of each victim if known, whether each victim was an adult or child if known, etc.);

(2) At least 60 days (three weeks under existing law) before the APA recommends a pardon or commutation of sentence for the inmate or at least 60 days (three weeks under existing law) prior to a hearing before the APA regarding a grant of parole to the inmate in relation to any prison term the inmate is serving, notice of the fact that the inmate might be under consideration for a pardon or commutation of sentence or will be having a hearing regarding a possible grant of parole, of the hearing date regarding a possible grant of parole, and of the right of any person to submit a written statement regarding the pending action.

(3) At least 60 days (three weeks under existing law) before the inmate is transferred to transitional control in relation to any prison term the inmate is serving, notice of the pendency of the transfer, the date of the possible transfer, and the right of any person to submit a statement regarding the possible transfer.

Parole-related reports by the Department of Rehabilitation and Correction

The bill requires DRC, at the end of each quarter, to submit to the chairpersons of the committees of the Senate and the House of Representatives that consider criminal justice legislation a report on the number and results of parole hearings conducted during the quarter and a list of persons incarcerated for committing "offenses of violence" (see "Offenses of violence" under "Background," below) who were granted parole and a summary of the terms and conditions of their parole. DRC must provide the committees with any documentation related to the reports that members of the committees may request. Upon request, DRC must provide a detailed statement, supported by documentation, of the reasons why a particular prisoner was granted parole to the law enforcement agency that arrested the prisoner, the prosecuting attorney who prosecuted the case, or any person who is a member of the General Assembly at the time the person makes the request.⁴⁶

Full Board hearings of the Parole Board

Request for, and notice of, full Board hearing

Currently, a Parole Board hearing officer, a Board member, or the Office of Victim Services may petition the Board for a full Board hearing that relates to the proposed parole or re-parole of a prisoner. At a meeting of the Board at which a majority of its members are present, the majority of those present must determine whether a full Board hearing will be held. Additionally, a victim of an aggravated murder or murder, the victim's representative, or the spouse, parent or parents, sibling, or child or children of the victim of the original offense may request the Board to hold a full Board hearing that relates to the proposed parole or re-parole of the person that committed the violation. If a victim, victim's representative, or other authorized person requests a full Board hearing pursuant to this provision, the Board must hold a full Board hearing.

The bill modifies the categories of victims who may request a full Board hearing so that a victim of aggravated murder or murder, an "offense of violence" that is a first, second, or third degree felony or an offense punishable by a sentence of life imprisonment, the representative of such a victim, or the spouse, parent or parents, sibling, or child or children of such a victim may request a full Board hearing that relates to the proposed parole or re-parole of the person that committed the violation.

The bill also specifies that, at least 30 days before a full Board hearing, except as otherwise described in this paragraph, the Board must give notice of the date, time, and place of the hearing to the victim regardless of whether the victim requested the notification. The notice is not to be given under this provision to a victim if the victim has "opted out" of the notice. At least 30 days before the full Board hearing and regardless of whether the victim has "opted out" of the notice, the Board also must notify the prosecuting attorney in the case, the law enforcement agency that arrested the prisoner if any officer of that agency was a victim of the offense, and, if different than the victim, the person who requested the full Board hearing. If the prosecuting attorney has not previously been sent an institutional summary report with respect to the prisoner, upon the request of the prosecuting attorney, the Board must include with the notice sent to the prosecuting attorney an institutional summary report that covers the offender's participation while in prison in training, work, and other rehabilitative activities and any disciplinary action taken against the offender while confined. Upon the request of a law enforcement agency that has not previously been sent an institutional summary report with respect to the prisoner, the Board also must send a copy of the report to the agency. If the notice is to be provided under this provision, the Board may give the notice by any reasonable means, including regular mail, telephone, and electronic mail in accordance with the provision described above in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." If the notice is based on an offense committed prior to the bill's effective date, the notice also must include the opt-out information described above in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." The Board must keep a record of attempts to provide notice and of notices provided in accordance with the provision described above in "Crime Victim's Rights Law notice provisions." The bill specifies that the provisions described in this paragraph, and the bill's notice-related provisions of R.C. 2929.20(E)(2) and (K), 2930.16(D)(1), 2967.12(H), 2967.19(E)(1)(b), 2967.26(A)(3)(b), and 2967.28(D)(1) are to be known as "Roberta's Law."⁴⁷

Attendance and presentation of information at full Board hearing

Currently, at a full Board hearing that relates to the proposed parole or re-parole of a prisoner and that is being held under a provision described above, the Parole Board must permit the following persons to appear and to give testimony or to submit written statements: (1) the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the original indictment against the prisoner was found and members of any law enforcement agency that assisted in the prosecution of the original offense, (2) the judge of the court of common pleas who imposed the original sentence upon the prisoner, or the judge's successor, (3) the victim of the original offense for which the prisoner is serving the sentence or the victim's representative, (4) the victim of any behavior that resulted in parole being revoked, (5) with respect to a full Board hearing held pursuant to a request by a victim, victim's representative, or specified family member, the spouse, parent or parents, sibling, or child or children of the victim of the original offense, and (6) counsel or another person designated by the prisoner as a representative.

The bill adds a new provision that specifies that, if the victim of the original offense died as a result of the offense and the offense was aggravated murder, murder,

an "offense of violence" that is a first, second, or third degree felony, or an offense punished by a sentence of life imprisonment, the family of the victim may show at a full Board hearing a video recording not exceeding five minutes in length memorializing the victim.⁴⁸

Voluntary manslaughter – new prohibition when involving sexual motivation

Existing law prohibits a person, while under the influence of sudden passion or in a sudden fit of rage, either of which is brought on by serious provocation occasioned by the victim that is reasonably sufficient to incite the person into using deadly force, from knowingly causing the death of another or the unlawful termination of another's pregnancy. A violation of the prohibition is the offense of "voluntary manslaughter," a felony of the first degree.

The bill additionally prohibits a person, with a "sexual motivation" (see below), from engaging in any of the conduct currently prohibited under the offense of voluntary manslaughter. The existing penalty for voluntary manslaughter applies to a violation of the new prohibition.⁴⁹

As used in the bill's provision, "sexual motivation" means a purpose to gratify the sexual needs or desires of the offender.⁵⁰

Sex Offender Registration and Notification Law – inclusion of voluntary manslaughter committed with a sexual motivation as a sexually oriented offense under that Law and related changes

Operation of the bill

Definition of "sexually oriented offense"

The Sex Offender Registration and Notification Law (the SORN Law) is contained in R.C. Chapter 2950. It imposes a series of duties and restrictions upon a person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to a "sexually oriented offense" or a "child-victim oriented offense" or who is adjudicated a delinquent child for committing any such offense and who is classified as a "juvenile offender registrant" (see "SORN Law definitions" under "Background," below). The bill expands the definition of "sexually oriented offense" so that, in addition to the offenses currently included within the definition, it also includes the offense of "voluntary manslaughter" when it is committed with a sexual motivation in violation of the new prohibition added by the bill (see "Voluntary manslaughter – new prohibition when involving sexual motivation," above).⁵¹

Definition of "Tier III sex offenders/child-victim offenders"

The SORN Law also categorizes offenders and delinquent children as "Tier I sex offenders/child-victim offenders," "Tier II sex offenders/child-victim offenders," and "Tier III sex offenders/child-victim offenders," depending upon the offense they committed. The bill expands the current definition of "Tier III sex offender/child-victim offender" (see "SORN Law definitions" under "Background," below) so that, in addition to the persons currently included within the definition, it also includes the following:⁵²

(1) A "sex offender" who is convicted of, pleads guilty to, has been convicted of, or has pleaded guilty to, any of the following sexually oriented offenses: (a) the offense of "voluntary manslaughter" when it is committed with a sexual motivation in violation of the new prohibition added by the bill, (b) a violation of any former law of Ohio, any existing or former municipal ordinance or law of another state or the United States, any existing or former law applicable in a military court or in an Indian tribal court, or any existing or former law of any nation other than the United States that is or was substantially equivalent to the offense of "voluntary manslaughter" when it is committed with a sexual motivation as described in clause (a) of this paragraph, or (c) any attempt to commit, conspiracy to commit, or complicity in committing the offense of "voluntary manslaughter" when it is committed with a sexual motivation as described in clause (a) of this paragraph;

(2) A sex offender who is adjudicated a delinquent child for committing or has been adjudicated a delinquent child for committing the offense of "voluntary manslaughter" when it is committed with a sexual motivation in violation of the new prohibition added by the bill and who a juvenile court classifies a Tier III sex offender/child-victim offender relative to the offense;

(3) A sex offender who is convicted of, pleads guilty to, was convicted of, pleaded guilty to, is adjudicated a delinquent child for committing, or was adjudicated a delinquent child for committing an offense in another state, in a federal court, military court, or Indian tribal court, or in a court in any nation other than the United States that is or was substantially equivalent to "voluntary manslaughter" when it is committed with a sexual motivation in violation of the new prohibition added by the bill, if both of the following apply: (a) under the law of the jurisdiction in which the offender was convicted or pleaded guilty or the delinquent child was adjudicated, the offender or delinquent child is in a category substantially equivalent to a category of Tier III sex offender/child-victim offender described in the Ohio definition of the term, and (b) subsequent to the conviction, plea of guilty, or adjudication in the other jurisdiction, the offender or delinquent child resides, has temporary domicile, attends school or an institution of higher education, is employed, or intends to reside in Ohio in any manner and for any period of time that subjects the offender or delinquent child to a duty to register or provide notice of intent to reside under R.C. 2950.04 or 2950.041.

Definition of "public registry-qualified juvenile offender registrant"

The SORN Law also categorizes certain delinquent children as "public registry-qualified juvenile offender registrants" (see "SORN Law definitions" under "Background," below). The bill expands the definition of "public registry-qualified juvenile offender registrant" so that, in addition to the persons currently included within the definition, it also includes a person who is adjudicated a delinquent child, on whom a juvenile court has imposed a "serious youthful offender dispositional sentence" under R.C. 2152.13 before, on, or after, January 1, 2008, and to whom all of the following apply:⁵³ (1) the person is adjudicated a delinquent child for committing, attempting to commit, conspiring to commit, or complicity in committing a violation that, if committed by an adult, would be the offense of "voluntary manslaughter" when it is committed with a sexual motivation in violation of the new prohibition added by the bill, (2) the person was 14, 15, 16, or 17 years of age at the time of committing the act, and (3) a juvenile court judge classifies the person a juvenile offender registrant, specifies the person has a duty to comply with the SORN Law, and classifies the person a public registry-qualified juvenile offender registrant and the classification has not been terminated pursuant to R.C. 2152.86(D).

Classification of certain juvenile offender registrants as public registry-qualified juvenile offenders

Existing law provides mechanisms for the classification of certain juvenile offender registrants as public registry-qualified juvenile offender registrants. The bill modifies two of the provisions to reflect the expansion in the definition of "public registry-qualified juvenile offender registrant" that it makes, as described above, as follows:⁵⁴

(1) In the provision that requires each juvenile court that adjudicates a child a delinquent child to issue as part of the dispositional order an order that classifies the child a juvenile offender registrant, specifies that the child has a duty to comply with the SORN Law, and additionally classifies the child a public registry-qualified juvenile offender registrant if the child satisfies all of the criteria for inclusion within the definition of "public registry-qualified juvenile offender registrant," it includes the changes to that definition that are described above.

(2) In the provision that requires each juvenile court, upon a child's release from the Department of Youth Services, to issue an order of the type described in the preceding paragraph if the child was adjudicated a delinquent child and a juvenile court imposed on the child a serious youthful offender dispositional sentence under R.C. 2152.13 for committing one of the acts specified in the definition of "public registry-qualified juvenile offender registrant," as described above, if the child was 14, 15, 16, or 17 years of age at the time of committing the act, and if the court did not issue an order classifying the child as both a juvenile offender registrant and a public registry-qualified juvenile offender registrant pursuant to the provision described in the preceding paragraph, it includes the changes to the definition of "public registry-qualified juvenile offender registrant" that are described above.
