Status: As Re-Reported by House Rules & Reference Sponsor: Rep. Landis

Local Impact Statement Procedure Required: No

Contents: Designates various memorial highways

State Fiscal Highlights

- The Ohio Department of Transportation (ODOT) would incur minimal costs to the Highway Operating Fund (Fund 7002) to install and maintain markers along most of the designated memorial locations listed in the bill. If any of the municipalities in the bill opt to have ODOT supply the signs, they would be charged for the cost but would still be responsible for the cost of installation.

Local Fiscal Highlights

- The cities of Fairborn, Mentor, and Columbus would be responsible for the full cost of any signage for the memorial highways designated within their boundaries. Certain other cities and villages could also be responsible for the costs of signing certain portions of memorial highways that pass within their boundaries if they choose to place such signs.

The cost of signage to mark the highways is paid either by the Ohio Department of Transportation (ODOT) or the municipal corporation through which the roadway passes, pursuant to ODOT's Traffic Engineering Manual.¹ In most cases above, ODOT will be responsible for the costs of installing signs to mark the designated roads. In certain cases, if the city of Fairborn, the city of Mentor, and the city of Columbus choose to install signs designating the Army Specialist Jesse Adam Snow Memorial Highway, the Sergeant Mark T. Smykowski Memorial Highway, and the Captain Nicholas J. Rozanski and Sergeant First Class Jeffrey J. Rieck memorial highways, respectively, those municipalities would be responsible for reimbursing ODOT for all signage costs, as those roads are contained entirely within municipal boundaries. In six other cases,

¹ Under ODOT's Traffic Engineering Manual, for memorial highways designated in Section 5533 of the Revised Code, municipalities that opt to install signs designating memorial highways are responsible for reimbursing ODOT for those signage costs on United States routes and state routes within their borders, while ODOT covers the costs of memorial highway signs outside municipal borders and Interstate highways within municipal borders.

ODOT and certain municipalities may share the costs as portions of those designated highways pass through municipal boundaries, but are not entirely contained within them.

Overall, ODOT and the associated municipalities would incur no more than minimal costs to install signs on each of the designated memorial highways in the bill. According to ODOT, the cost to manufacture and install a single set of flatsheet signs at one location is approximately $350 to $400 per sign, depending on sign size and equipment needed. Once a set of signs is installed, there are typically no maintenance costs unless the signs are damaged. Signs are usually in need of replacement every 12 to 15 years. When a highway or bridge is designated as a memorial, ODOT's policy is to install a marker in a rest area, scenic overlook, recreational area, or other appropriate location. If this is not practical, a marker is installed along the highway or near the bridge instead. For highways designated in two directions, two markers are usually installed, one in each direction at each location.
