SECOND CHANCE GRANT ANNUAL REPORT

2023

ollege completion rates in American higher education have, unfortunately, been low throughout our nation's history. Thankfully, a strong, nationwide focus on student success has resulted in significant improvements in the past decade. Ohio, in particular, has made significant strides in increasing the percentage of students who complete their college education. The National Student Clearinghouse Research Center notes that the six-year completion rate for the nation has improved from 52.9% for incoming students in 2009 to 62.2% for incoming students in 2017.¹ Ohio, though, has demonstrated superior improvement with an improvement from 53.0% in 2009 to 66.5% in 2017; only 13 states demonstrate higher six-year completion rates.²

While completion has improved, more than 25% of incoming freshmen at universities and more than 40% at community colleges do not return for their second year.³ The reasons for not returning are varied and complex: financial, academic, occupational, familial, personal, and health issues all can impact the likelihood of a student returning to finish a degree or credential. Over time, students stopping out of higher education has resulted in 39 million Americans possessing some college credit, but no degree or credential.⁴ There are approximately 1.3 million Ohioans with "some credit, no degree" (SCND).⁵

SCND adults are less likely than graduates to realize a return on investment from their experience in higher education – they demonstrate lower levels of personal and economic success and are more likely to default on any accumulated student debt. SCND adults can be categorized by their likelihood of returning to an institution of higher education and earning a degree or credential, with 9% of SCND adults (approximately 120,000 Ohioans) categorized as likely completers. This group is younger (under the age of 40), attended a postsecondary institution recently (within the past five years), is more likely than other SCND adults to have earned at least 60 college credits, and is more likely to have attended multiple institutions of higher education.

In October of 2021, the Second Chance Grant was established by the State of Ohio as a pilot program designed to provide financial assistance and incentive to SCND Ohioans looking to return to a postsecondary institution in order to earn a degree or credential. This pilot provided $3 million in financial assistance in the form of $2,000 grants to eligible returning students. Second Chance grants were made available to students pursuing any credential or degree up to a bachelor's degree, provided they were demonstrating an upward trajectory in terms of credential attainment. Senate Bill 135 (SB 135) went into effect in July of 2022. SB 135 codified the Second Chance Grant Program into the Ohio Revised Code, moving it from a pilot program to an ongoing financial aid program. The original appropriation of $3 million was fully disbursed by April of 2023.

With the passage of the FY24-25 biennial budget bill (HB 33), the Second Chance Grant program received an additional appropriation of $2 million in each of FY24 and FY25. HB 33 also increased the Second Chance award amount from $2,000 to $3,000. The FY24 appropriation has been fully allocated as of September 2023.

In 2022, Second Chance Grants were awarded to students at 62 postsecondary institutions. In 2023, Second Chance Grants were awarded to students at 51 postsecondary institutions.

Ohio's public institutions of higher education accounted for the majority of grants awarded in both 2022 (73.2%) and 2023 (67.9%) (see Figure 3).

The Second Chance Grant is awarded to students who have disenrolled from a qualifying postsecondary educational institution. Many of the grant awardees return to the institution from which they had previously disenrolled, but others change institutions. Second Chance Awardees' previous institutions in both 2022 and 2023 are detailed in Figure 4.

Awardees' previous institutions represent every sector in Ohio (Figure 5). In both 2022 and 2023, Ohio's public community colleges account for over 50% of awardees' previous institutions. This is unsurprising given that nationwide, community colleges have a higher rate of attrition after freshman year (approximately 40%) compared with universities (approximately 25%), and students who had earned an associate degree at a community college and are seeking a bachelor's degree are eligible for a Second Chance grant.

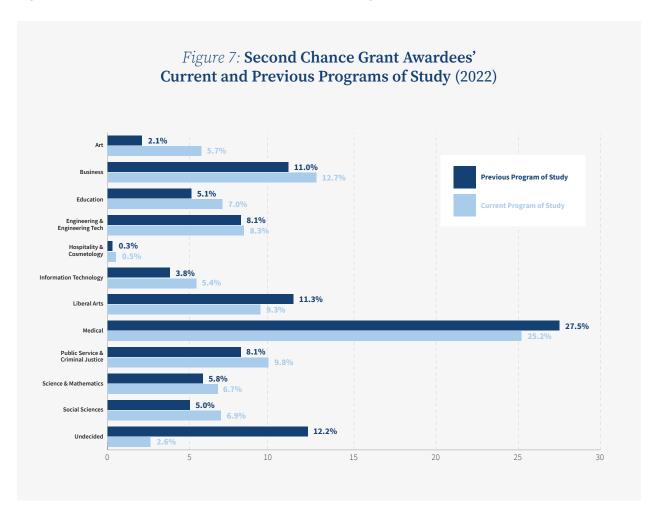

The majority of Second Chance grant awardees pursued a degree (associate or bachelor's) in both 2022 (77.1%) and 2023 (67.8%) (Figure 6). Compared with 2022 awardees, awardees in 2023 pursued greater numbers of industry-recognized credentials and fewer bachelor's degrees. This reflects the increase in Second Chance Grant utilization by career colleges and schools and the decreased use at public universities (Figure 3).

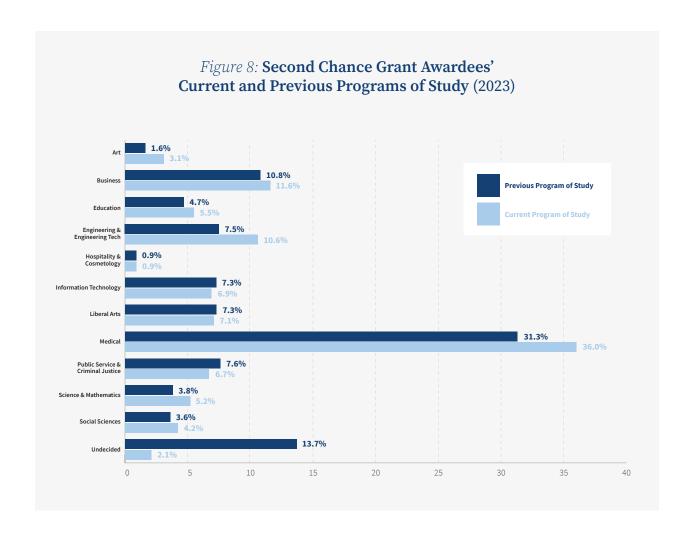

In 2022, Second Chance Grant recipients most commonly re-enrolled in medical (25.2%), business (12.7%), and public service & criminal justice (9.8%) programs of study. In their previous experience with postsecondary education, these students had enrolled most often in medical (27.5%) and liberal arts (11.3%) programs of study, or had been undecided (12.2%).

In 2023, Second Chance Grant recipients most commonly re-enrolled in medical (36.0%), business (11.6%), and engineering and engineering technology (10.6%) programs of study. In their previous experience with postsecondary education, these students had enrolled most often in medical (31.3%) and business (10.8%) programs of study, or had been undecided (13.7%).

Figures 7 and 8 detail recipients' current and previous programs of study.

As demonstrated in Figure 9, approximately two-thirds (66.4%) of Second Chance Grant recipients in 2022 are currently continuing with their program of study and enrolled in postsecondary education (36.4%) or have already earned a credential or a degree as a result of their re-enrollment (30.0%). The remaining one-third (33.5%) of 2022 Second Chance grantees have dropped out or withdrawn from the institution where they re-enrolled.

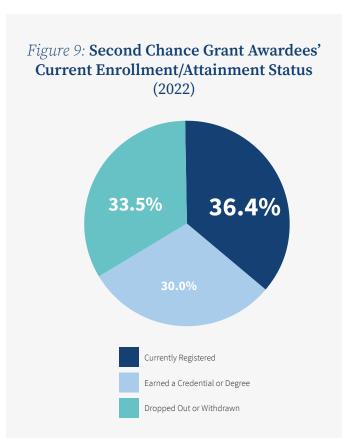

Figure 10 demonstrates that over twothirds (67.5%) of these awardees are still enrolled in their postsecondary institution. This is unsurprising; as compared with 2022 awardees, 2023 Second Chance Grant recipients have had less time to either complete a credential (20.1%) or disenroll (12.3%).
